

Newsletter #6

My goodness it is 6 weeks already since I started these letters. The weather is getting warmer, things are turning green, and nature is showing us that there are still so many blessings in life for us to appreciate.

This Sunday is “vacation Sunday” on the church calendar, so our video worship will reflect this. It was a fun worship to make, and I hope it gives a lift to your spirits as well.

We are continuing to do bible study online with the Zoom video application. We meet Wednesday mornings at 9:30. If anyone wishes to join us, contact the office before Wednesday with your information and we can get you added to the group. Some of you already know that I am extremely fond of sock monkeys. You may have noticed that one little buddy has joined me for worship the last few weeks. Over the last couple of weeks, Jen and I have been using some of our free time to make sock monkeys with little t-shirts supporting WUC (Westminster United Church). These will be for sale in the near future as a fund raiser for the church. We will post pictures of them on the Facebook page for those who might be interested in seeing our little creations. We have a few made, but we can take orders if we run out. Each one is “unique” as they are hand-made with love. They have button eyes, but if you want one for a small child, we can embroider eyes on instead. Suggested donation for small monkeys is $15 and $20 for regular sized primates.

The church goes on, in spite of our having to be apart in body. We are holding the fort here while keeping connected as best we can outside these walls. Until next week, stay safe and well. Take care of each other as best you can. Call if you need us.

(Rev.) Lynn

To mask or not to mask. That is the question.

You can help your church and your country.

We have full face masks that are washable and reusable. They have a front and lining each with interfacing , so in essence have four layers. In fact, most are reversible. They have straps to hold them in place. The price is $8 each with half going to the church and half to cover costs.

Phone Arlea at 403-504-0609.

If you are unable to pick them up, arrangements can be made.
